Developments in Welding Technology Illustrated on Postage Stamps

- Since postage stamps came into use in England, in 1840, a many thousands off different images, have been issued all over the world - but those related to welding are very scarce amounting to no more than 250 different types, they have been issued in 84 Countries.

- A stamp with an arc welder, issued in the Union of South Africa, seems to be the first one symbolizing modern welding.
